CASTING OF "STARS" SET FOR APRIL

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

If the weather keeps on like it is, most anyone can become a weather expert. If it rains today you can figure the sun will shine tomorrow, and visa versa.

There was once a very ritzy Idaho Potato who married a similarly ritzy long Island Potato and in nature's own good time they had a little sweet potato.

The little sweet potato grew up in the best of circumstances, went to the best finishing schools, met the best potatoes in the neighborhood and in general was groomed for being, like her parent potatoes, a very ritzy potato.

Then one day the little sweet potato came to her mother, the Long Island potato and said, "Mama, I'm in love with David Brinkley, he's so gentlemanly, so intelligent, so refined. I love him dearly, Mama, and I want to marry him."

"Heavens," cried the Long Island potato, "you can't marry David Brinkley. Why?" the mama potato smiled, "he's just a commentator."

Well anyway that's better than being a spectator at that.

Another boon to husbands that have to cook every now and then. Go down to the grocery and get some of the french fries that are already cut-up and frozen. They come in all shapes. Some are in little cubes like tiny barrels, and are already cooked. All you do is just heat them.

Occasion arose last night where we had to cook supper and we surprised everybody by turning out a pretty good meal.

When time to fix the gravy rolled around we couldn't find the corn starch or baking soda you use to make gravy. We finally decided to take a chance on the corn starch and it evidently was the right thing because the gravy tasted fairly decent.

We finally outfitted the potato people, too.

Baked potatoes we fix are usually done about a third of the way through, then semi-raw the rest of the way. We wifely used small potatoes instead of the big ones, that did the trick.

Mrs. John Shackelford Passes Away

Mrs. John R. Shackelford, age 75, passed away this morning at 1:15 o'clock at the Murray Hospital. Her death followed an illness of five weeks.

Survivors are her husband, John Shackelford, 209 Elm Street; one daughter, Mrs. Louise Stevens, Riverside, California; three sons, Max, Madison, Wisconsin, Rex, Texarkana, Texas, and Fred, Milwaukee, Wisconsin; two sisters, Mrs. Florence Canon, Murray route five and Mrs. Eppie Wilcox of Murray; two brothers, Reubin Wilcox, Dawson Springs, Kentucky and Tipton Wilcox, Detroit, Michigan; and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Shackelford was a member of the church of Christ at 7th and Poplar in Murray. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel of the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home. Bro. Jay Lockhart will conduct the service and burial will be in the Murray cemetery.

Palbearers are Audrey Canon, Arlath Canon, Henry Fulton, James Fain, Pat Thompson, and Everett Jones.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

Beware Of Bond Chain Letter Chamber Of Commerce Warns

The chain savings bond scheme which swept the country a few years ago has reappeared and again is being promoted as a get-rich-quick lure to fool the gullible. James L. Johnson, Executive Secretary of the Murray Chamber of Commerce, warned local residents today that this sales plan is in violation of both postal and lottery laws.

Mr. Johnson also cited the National Better Business Bureau, with which the Chamber is affiliated through membership, as stating that, although participants in the chain letter scheme may think they are doing the government a favor, the United States Treasury Department strongly disapproves of the sale of Savings Bonds through such unlawful methods.

Typical Letter
A typical Savings Bond endorses chain letter, Johnson explained lists the names and addresses of 11 people, and is sold person-to-person. An individual desiring to participate, pays the person whose name appears at the bottom of the list an $18.75 bond, and is required, in the presence of the seller, to mail another $18.75 bond to the first name on the list. The new participant then makes two copies of the letter and sells it to two other people. The participant is told that when his name reaches the top of the list, he will receive bonds totaling $36,400.

In ruling that chain letter schemes, including those involving United States Savings Bonds, are violations of postal fraud and lottery laws, the Post Office Department stated:

"Such schemes are deemed to be lotteries because the question as to whether the chain will be broken is a matter of chance. So, also, it is a matter of chance whether a participant will reap anything from his participation in these schemes. A savings bond purchased in connection with such schemes is deemed under postal laws to represent a share, or interest in or dependent upon the

March 1 marked the nineteenth anniversary of the Murray Insurance Agency, a period which saw the premium volume of the company multiplied twenty times.

Guy Billington, general manager of the firm attributes this growth to a cooperation public, good service on the part of the agency and the 100 years of experience enjoyed by the six men in the firm.

Guy Billington, Owen Billington, Bob Billington, E. C. Jones, Harold B. Beaman and Thomas Scruggs have a combined experience in the insurance field of 100 years. This experience, said Billington, is of great aid to us in tailoring the insurance needs of a customer. E. C. Jones has been in the insurance business for the past forty-two years.

Nineteen years ago on March 1 the agency opened its doors for business. Shortly afterward the E. C. Jones Agency was purchased and in 1946 the Paul Gholson Agency was purchased.

SINGER SLAIN — Frances McCann, 42, American singer wife of G. W. Rodgers, Jr. of Altadena, Calif., business man, was found shot to death in her room in a fashionable Rome, Italy hotel. In a nearby room police found her manager, Ernest Boxmann of New York, with a bullet wound in his head. The singer, on a two-year tour of Europe, is the mother of four children. She was active as a leading lady with road companies operettas in the late 1940s and 1950s.

Kindergarten Teachers Meet On Saturday

Kindergarten and nursery school teachers of West Kentucky met at Robertson School in Murray Saturday for a meeting of the West Kentucky Association on children under six. Kindergarten teachers of Murray and Benton served as hosts to the meet.

Dennis Taylor, principal of Robertson School, gave the welcome address. "Exploring Professional Materials" was the topic presented by Miss Lotte Suter, Professor of Education, Murray State College. The subject of a panel of Murray State College students was "Exploring Books for Children." The panel consisted of Betty Nab, Guthrie, Ky., chairman, Judi Stearns, Jackson, Michigan, Kay Fields, Hickman, Martha Hamilton, Hayfield, and Sarah Jane Mayfield, Benton, Ky. This was followed by a discussion period when the teachers divided into three groups to discuss current problems.

Members of the Sigma Department, Murray Woman's Club, assisted in serving lunch to the visiting teachers.

Tryouts For Production On Kentucky Lake Planned Here

"Kentuckians Preferred," is the way Burnett Hobgood sums up the first call for actors, dancers, singers and other talent wishing to participate in the outdoor drama "Stars In My Crown" to be presented at the amphitheater at Kentlake Hotel this summer. Mr. Hobgood and his wife Jane will arrive in West Kentucky about April 3rd and will conduct auditions for parts in Dr. Kenneth Hunter's historical drama of West Kentucky on April 5th in Murray, from two until five o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Hobgood will audition the dancers and Jack Boyd will audition the singers. Mr. Boyd, Director of Music at Tighman High School, has been employed as musical director for the show. Max Hurt, President of the West Kentucky Productions Association, announced today.

Mr. Hobgood, a native born Kentuckian, who will direct the first outdoor drama ever presented in this area, summed up his search for talent for "Stars In My Crown" in this manner: "We want the best possible cast for this show. The play celebrates the people of Western Kentucky—their courage in meeting problems, their resourcefulness in finding solutions, and their heroism in overcoming adversity. We want people in our cast who will be able to convey that idea to the audience."

When asked about the qualifications needed by those persons seeking roles in the production, Mr. Hobgood said, "There are no qualifications really, except: turning interest and desire. It is true that experience counts heavily, but essentially we are looking for people with a long string of credits." Mr. Hobgood said that most of the cast will be 17 years old and older. "I am particularly interested in a few older people who could be interested in working as citizens and townspeople in crowd scenes. Also, we need a half-dozen or more children to play young Alben Barkley, Irvin S. Cobb and other prominent characters," he added.

Mr. Hobgood asked that it be made clear that everyone connected with the cast will be paid. Auditions to audition for the drama should be addressed to West Kentucky Productions Association, Box 679, Murray, Kentucky. Personal contact with any members of the organization will in no way help those interested in the play to get the parts. All talent must be interviewed by the three directors who will be on hand to audition dancers, actors and singers.

The Directors of "Stars In My Crown" is a Kentuckian bred and raised, who has the personal familiarity with the geography of this and other countries which is often the result of being a foreign missionary's son. His father is Dr. Henry Clay Hobgood, a native of Nebo, Ky., who was for many years supported in his missionary work in the Congo by the Mayfield Christian Church. Dr. Hobgood, who has the longest tenure in history and has been frequently honored for that work, first went to the Congo in 1912 and is there now, at the invitation of the Congo Christian Churches, to be one of two experienced missionaries who are making a new translation of the Bible into African-Nkundo. The late Mrs. Tabitha Alderson Hobgood, native of Harrodsburg, was also a linguist, in addition to being the mother of six children, all of whom are loyal Kentuckians although none of them is so fortunate as to live and work in that land of Canaan.

Burnett Hobgood grew up in Lexington, Ky., where he was graduated from Transylvania College after a three-year stint in the U. S. Army Signal Corps during World War II. He worked for two years as a reporter on the Lexington Herald-Leader before entering the Graduate School of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, where he earned the M. A. and M. F. A. degrees in dramatic arts. After directing plays at Transylvania College and in a summer stock theater in Maine, he became Chairman of the Drama and Speech Department at Otisville College in Salisbury, N. C. He is now on leave from that position to do further graduate work toward the Ph. D. and is the Alexander M. Drummond Fellow in Speech and Drama at Cornell University.

Hobgood considers himself primarily a theater director and teacher, but has also gained recognition as an actor, writer, designer, administrator, and scholar. He has staged more than 50 full-scale productions, acted in more than a score, written plays and designed settings for as many more. He was Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the South Eastern Theater Conference and first editor of that organization's quarterly magazine, Southern Theater. He became Administrative Vice-President of the American Educational Theater Association after heading AETA's Kentucky Curriculum Project and serving as editor of the unique reference work, "A Directory of American College Theater." His greatest interest is the development of new playwrights, and one of his busiest sidelines is as a playwright's consultant; he was largely responsible for devising the Playwrights Program of AETA, which has just begun operation this year.

His wife, Jane Bishop Hobgood, of Berea and Pine Mountain, Ky., is a well known folk artist in the Southeastern part of the state. She specializes in the "bonesome" songs of the Appalachians as a singer, is an experienced folk dance leader, and has choreographed a number of modern musical comedies. The Hobgoods have two children, Laurence (9) and Catherine (2) and now live in Idaho, N. Y.

Mr. Hobgood has worked with the following outdoor dramas: Wilderness Road (Berea, Ky.), actor, two seasons; The Lost Colony (Mantoloking, N. C.), director, one season; The Confederacy (Virginia Beach, Va.), actor, one season; Chucky Jack (Gatlinburg, Tenn.), actor, one season; Golden Prairie (Decatur, Ill.), director, one season; From Out of This Dream (Salisbury, N. C.), co-author and director; Bound For Kentucky (Louisville, Ky.), Director one season.

Jane, a graduate of Berea College, has worked with the following: Wilderness Road—dancer, singer, costume; The Confederacy—actress.

In theater, she has worked most often as costume and costume designer.

Seneca Fans Too Excited To Worry About How Long The Redskins Can Remain State Champs; Dunbar Looks Ahead

By ROBERT WESTON

LOUISVILLE (UP) — Seneca basketball fans today were much too excited over the school's first state high school championship to worry about whether they'll keep it more than one year.

As for the other 415 prep teams in the state, the prospects for defending the suburban Louisville team are not as encouraging as they may appear at first glance.

It's true, Seneca will lose four starters through graduation, including all-star Mike Redd, the highest scorer of the state meet with a 24-point average. But just look who's back—suggested 6-foot-7 Wesley Unsell. And if there is a better junior basketball player in Kentucky, coach Bob Mulcahy would like to know where.

Unsell is a junior version of the Boston Celtics' Bill Russell. Wesley would be an invaluable member of any basketball squad if he never scored a point because of his rebounding and defensive skill.

Like Picking Cherries

Rebounding comes like picking cherries without a ladder for the 230-pound Unsell, whose brother, George, currently is a Kansas University cage star.

Wesley grabbed almost twice as many rebounds in the state tourney as any other player, averaging about 20 a game.

As another facet of his value, Unsell blocked nearly as many shots as he took himself, except for the Redskins first turner encounter with Allen County in which he collected 32 points.

No one Unsell Seneca's only hope for next season. Coach Mulcahy raves about a six-foot freshman named Larry Trumppel, who he calls one of the best shooters he's ever seen for a 16-year old.

Then too, the Redskins have perhaps the tallest bench-warmer in the commonwealth returning next season, and likely to be promoted to a starting role. That would be 6-foot-8 James Garrison, who rode the bench this season simply because the Redskins had all the height they needed.

Ready to challenge Seneca's ambitions for another crown is Lexington Dunbar, which bowed to the Redskins, 72-66, in last Saturday night's final.

Dunbar coach S. T. Roach will have his team virtually intact next season.

Four of the Bearcat regulars are juniors and the fifth a sophomore.

In fact, there is only one senior on the squad and he didn't play in the tourney. However, James Smith, Dunbar's leading scorer in the state meet, is 19 and hence will be too old to be eligible next year.

The state tourney unveiled an extraordinarily fine crop of underclassmen. Included in this group besides Unsell are George Wilson, of Dunbar; Norm Weaver, of Allen County; Bobby Jenkins and Ronnie Webster, of Oldham County; Carl Foster, of Newport Catholic; Jack Keeney, of Seneca; Joe Rowe, of Taylor County; Jim Hines, of Owensboro; Gregory Smith and Marvin Copeland, both of Princeton-Dotson, and Keith Lawson of Germant. All of these boys are juniors.

Eyes on Haskins

College coaches also will be keeping their eyes on 6-foot-4 freshman Paul Haskins of Taylor County, brother of the fabulous Clem, 6-foot-1 sophomore Kenny Rigdon, of Allen County, and Clay County's growing giant Gifford Hubbard, a 6-foot-9 sophomore and the tallest player in the tourney.

Seneca, living up to its ranking as the state's No. 1 team in the final United Press International ratings, swept to the championship with tourney victories over Allen County, Mayesville and Oldham County as well as Dunbar.

The four triumphs gave the Redskins a near-perfect season record of 31-1. The lone loss was to Carr Creek in the final of the Louisville Invitational Tournament here.

IN MEMORY

In memory of Willie Vaughn, my dear dad who passed away 2 years ago March 16th. When I kissed you goodbye at the hospital, I knew it would be the last.

The blow was hard and the shock severe, I know your death was near.

But you didn't complain, you kept right on thinking of others just the same.

I visit your grave more than anyone knows and as I stand there alone I bow my head and thank God for having had a wonderful dad like you.

Sadly missed
Your daughter Blanche Hatcher

Jennings Makes All-OVC Squad And Varnas, Schlosser Named

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 16—Who ever heard of a sergeant rating a seven-gun salute? In a manner of speaking, the Ohio Valley Conference Saturday when its seven head basketball coaches cast ballots for the 1962-63 all-league basketball team.

Long unanimous choice was Mordecai's Harold Sargent, who sports his name without an "s".

Morehead, which shared the conference crown with Tennessee Tech, then lost to the latter in a playoff for the N.C.A.A. tournament berth, also landed a second player on the first five, Norm Pickley.

Rounding out the all-OVC team were Jim Jennings of Murray, Mel Roberts of East Tennessee Tech, and Ron Pickett of Eastern Kentucky.

Headlining the balloting for the fifth spot in the building so a six-man team was named.

Four players tied for the fifth spot on the second team so an eight-man unit was named.

Headlining the balloting for the No. 2 unit was Bobby Jackson of Western Kentucky. Then followed Daryl Carrier, also of Western Kentucky; Bennett Jett of Middle Tennessee, and Al Varnas of Murray.

Tied for the fifth spot were Eddie Hester of Tennessee Tech, Willie Moore of Middle Tennessee, Larry Stewart of Middle Tennessee and Roy Wims of Morehead.

Although all seven coaches voted for a first five and a second five, only 19 players were mentioned. Gaining honorable mention were John Adams and Bobby Young of Tennessee Tech, Rupert Stephens and Jim Weik of Eastern Kentucky and Scott Schlosser of Murray.

A 6-foot guard from Ashland, Ky., who missed the post-season playoff game with the flu, Sargent was the only sophomore to be mentioned in the voting.

The only player in the conference to score in double figures in every game, Sargent led the league in scoring with a 20.4 point average.

A 6-6 junior from Dayton, O., Jennings was the only repeater from last year's honor five. A left-handed who can play either center or forward, Jennings was second in rebounding (16.1) and fifth in scoring (17.5).

Pickley, a 6-9 strongboy from Warren, Mich., entered the play-off game with a 17.0 rebounding mark, good for the No. 3 spot nationally. A 16-point scorer, he made the switch from forward to center in his forward year.

He and Jennings tied for second in the balloting, as 10 points was awarded for a first five vote and five for a second team ballot.

Roberts, a 6-7 forward from Asheville, N.C., led East Tennessee to the No. 3 spot, averaging a team-high 14.1 points and 10.5 rebounds. A junior, Roberts also operated from the pivot on offense.

The tallest guard in the conference, the 6-5 Rychemer averaged 15.4 points and was the leading influence for co-champion Tennessee Tech, which was ranked no better than fifth in the balloting. Sargent, who was named MVP of the conference, was the only player to be named MVP of the conference.
